1. Google

We use the Google service of the company Google LLC, 1600 Amphitheatre Parkway, 94043 Mountain View, United States, e-mail: support-de@google.com, website: <http://www.google.com/>. The processing also takes place in a third country for which there is no Commission adequacy decision. Therefore, the usual level of protection for the GDPR cannot be guaranteed for the transfer, as it cannot be ruled out that in the third country, e.g. authorities can access the collected data.

The legal basis for the transmission of personal data is your consent pursuant to Art. 6 para. 1 lit. a DSGVO or Art. 9 para. 2 lit. a DSGVO, which you have given on our website. We use Google in order to be able to reload further services from Google on the website.

You can revoke your consent at any time. You can find more information about revoking your consent either with the consent itself or at the end of this privacy policy. For more information on the handling of transmitted data, please refer to the provider's privacy policy at <https://policies.google.com/privacy>.

These cookies are used to collect information about how visitors use our website. We use the information to compile reports and to help us improve the website.

The cookies collect information in a way that does not directly identify anyone, including the number of visitors to the website and blog, where visitors have come to the website from and the pages they visited. Read Google's overview of privacy and safeguarding data

3. CookieLawInfoConsent

You may come across a message or statement called CookieLawInfoConsent on our website. This message is displayed to inform you about the cookies and similar technologies used on our website. This is important as it helps you understand how your data is being collected, used and shared by us.

The purpose of CookieLawInfoConsent is to obtain your consent before using any non-essential cookies or technologies. This means that we ask for your permission before collecting and using your data for any purposes that are not necessary for the basic functioning of the website.

CookieLawInfoConsent typically includes information about the different types of cookies used, such as necessary cookies, performance cookies, functionality cookies, and targeting cookies. It also provides information on how you can manage your cookie preferences through your browser settings.

By providing you with this information, we aim to help you make an informed decision about whether to accept cookies or not. We want to be transparent about our data practices and ensure that you have control over how your data is used.

If you have any questions or concerns about CookieLawInfoConsent or the use of cookies on our website, you can contact us for more information.
